

Ella Markham

University Email: E.Markham@ed.ac.uk

A first-year PhD student in Natural Language Processing at the University of Edinburgh, with a particular interest in semantic and pragmatic acquisition

Education and training

2022-present PhD in Natural Language Processing, CDT in NLP, University of Edinburgh

2019-2022 BA Psychology and Linguistics, St Hugh's College, University of Oxford

Received a scholarship from St Hugh's College for gaining a distinction in the preliminary examinations.

Work experience

Jan 2022 – September 2022

Research Assistant, SPA Lab, University of Potsdam

Working as part of the team investigating semantic and pragmatic scales as part of a 6-year project.

August 2021

Data Science Intern, Ieso Digital Health

Using R to analyse linguistic features extracted from therapy transcripts, examine any patterns discovered, and communicate my findings to the team.

June 2021

Communications Intern, Boys in Mind

Reaching out to potential sponsors and promoters, and sharing the charity's mental health resources with schools around the UK.

April 2020 – March 2021

A-Level Psychology Tutor, Coronavirus Tutoring Initiative

Tutoring students disadvantaged by the coronavirus pandemic: setting and marking practice questions and providing feedback over zoom.